EDUCATOR TO SPEAK

Plans for Graduation Activities Announced

The 140 members of Dunbar's graduating class will hear an address by Dr. John E. Codwell, a noted educator of Atlanta, Ga., at the Commencement program Thursday, June 13.

The program will be held at 8 p.m. at E. C. Glass auditorium. Class President Ricardo Cheatwood will preside.

Marshall Davis, salutatorian of the class, will give the welcome address. Myra Gordon, valedictorian, will give the farewell address.

Dr. Codwell is associate director of Educational Improvement Project of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools with headquarters in Atlanta. The project administers grants totaling 18 million dollars from the Danforth, Ford, and Noyes Foundations and the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

A member of Phi Delta Kappa scholarship fraternity, Dr. Codwell received in 1967 the University of Michigan's Sesquicentennial Award for meritorious achievement of an alumni.

Dr. Codwell, who is the author of numerous articles on education, is the former principal of Jack Yates High School in Houston, Texas, one of the outstanding schools in this country.

Also, he is a past president of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and a past president of the Texas Principals Association.

Principal C. W. Seay will award the diplomas, and Mrs. P. F. Weeden, assistant principal, will present the scholarship awards.

The Baccalaureate service will be held Sunday, June 9, at Court Street Baptist Church at 3 p.m. The Reverend Haywood Robinson, pastor of Diamond Hill Baptist Church, will deliver the sermon.

Music will be rendered by the Dunbar chorus, directed by Mr.

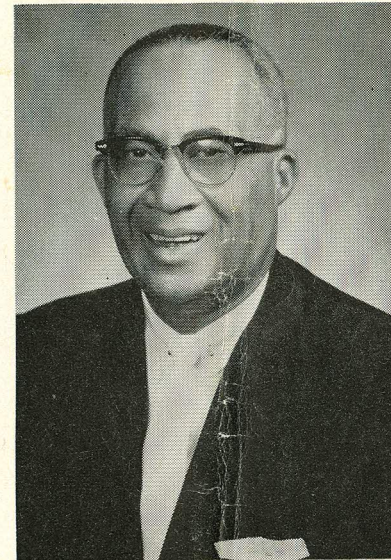

Robert Winfrey, who will also play the organ music.

The Class Night activities are scheduled for Tuesday, June 11, at 8 p.m. in the Dunbar High School auditorium.

"The Shadow of a Doubt," the class play will be presented, after which senior prizes will be awarded. Local businesses, churches, P.T.A.'s, clubs, and fraternal groups are making the prizes and awards possible.

At their final meeting of the year, 14 members of the Projectionists Club were presented certificates of merit by Mr. C. W. Seay in recognition of their service to the school during the past school year.

Senior members of the club were also presented pins.

Mr. Seay commended the members for their fine service in handling stage lights and audio-visual equipment and spoke of their important role in a smoothly run school program.

Members receiving certiates were Lt. Norman Greene, Lemuel Morris, Mike Harris, Capt. Ronald Wilkinson, Carlton Harris, and Co-captain Robert Copeland.

Also Lt. Robert Goins, Lt. Glenn Clark, Willie Crews, Sgt. Robert Wynn, William Mabry, Thomas Lynch, Howard Bolden and Edward Stamps.

Norman Greene was appointed acting captain for next year. Other officers will be elected later.

Mr. O. M. Washington and Mr. Robert Saunders are co-sponsors of the club.

Toastmasters Offer Service

The Lynchburg Toastmasters Club, a group of men who work full time in local industry or businesses, has offered assistance in acting as judges or evaluators at future public speaking events at Dunbar.

According to Mr. Virgil Bowles, president, and Mr. Francis Masseth in a letter to Mr. Seay, the club wants to render a public service to high school students as well as to improve its members' ability to express themselves.

Library Seeks Student Aid

The school library is interested in signing up library assistants for next year. Any interested students, boys as well as girls, may contact Mrs. S. Davis and Mrs. P. Smith for information as to what library assistants do and what rewards library assistants receive.

Both librarians can be contacted from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. through June 11 for a conference or an application form.

Some of the qualifications given for a good library assistant are a passing grade in each subject, an interest in the library and reading, willingness to work and get along with others, and neatness.

Senior Accomplishments

The year 1968 is a year for the graduating seniors to look toward the future, but also it's a time to look backwards at their accomplishments as a class. For many it seems as if it were only yesterday when they first came here eager, innocent and bright-eyed. Now the long awaited journey has come to an end and they stand on the threshold of a new dawn.

Looking back, we note these accomplishments of the seniors during their stay at Dunbar:

- ... Their Senior Class play "They Gave Him A Coed" was a hilarious hit.
- ... Included in the 39 members of the Hill City Chapter of National Honor Society are 22 seniors.
- ... Annie Harvey was crowned "Miss Dunbar."
- ... Myra Gordon, Gerard Hutcherson, and Daniel Calloway were elected to "Who's Who In American High Schools in 1968."
- ... Ronald Thomas led a strong debating team to the Western-District Championship.
- ... Geraldine Giles became Editor-in-Chief of the 1968 Dunbarian.
- ... Senior Day was an overwhelming success. Kenneth Stanton and Lawrence Burford really stole the show with the famous "Here Comes the Judge."
- ... Dunbar Chronicle won first place rating (for the first time) under the leadership of Veronica Shelton and Patricia Washington, co-editors.
- ... Seniors won the Student Council College Bowl quiz for two years.
- ... Marshall Davis was president of the Student Council this year.

CHRONICLE SPOTLIGHT

'Four Jewels' Give Devoted Service To School

When "Pomp and Circumstance" echoes around the various cities and towns each June, practically everyone's mind naturally turns to the numerous graduates who have reached another milestone in their lives.

True, this is their time of year, but there are some other persons who are closely allied to these graduates and they, too, have reached a milestone in their lives. If it had not been for the skill and dedication of these persons, graduation time might never come around at all.

Each June a large number of teachers retire from the teaching field. This is both good and bad, for these teachers deserve a time to rest and to do some of the things they have put off for years. But at the same time the schools involved will miss their service and faithfulness.

We at Dunbar have mixed emotions this Commencement, because four of our teachers are retiring. Miss Dorothy D. Lomax, Mrs. Clara M. Seay, Mr. Odell M. Washington, and Mr. Norvell O. White are closing out a total of 157 years of service to Dunbar High School. We fondly refer to them as our "Four Jewels," for in every respect they have been jewels.

Not only have they faithfully served Dunbar but also they have served the community through their active participation in various civic, educational, and religious affairs.

Collectively, local civic and social groups have been guided by their wisdom and have enjoyed their company; Sunday School pupils have been guided by their religious instructions; audiences have enjoyed their artistic and technical know-how; church-goers have heard their voices on choirs and in other capacities; and their fellow teachers have known their dedication, exuberance, cooperation, and friendship.

We could never enumerate the honorees' duties at Dunbar, for they are innumerable and span at least a couple of decades for each one. But we do know that we will miss Miss Lomax, who teaches Latin and is head of the Foreign Language Dept.; Mrs. Seay, a guidance counselor; Mr. Washington, math teacher and head of the Math Dept.; and Mr. White, carpentry instructor and head of the Vocational Dept.

Instead of bidding these teachers farewell, the Dunbar CHRONICLE turns the spotlight on them and salutes them for a job well done.

BY GERALDINE GILES

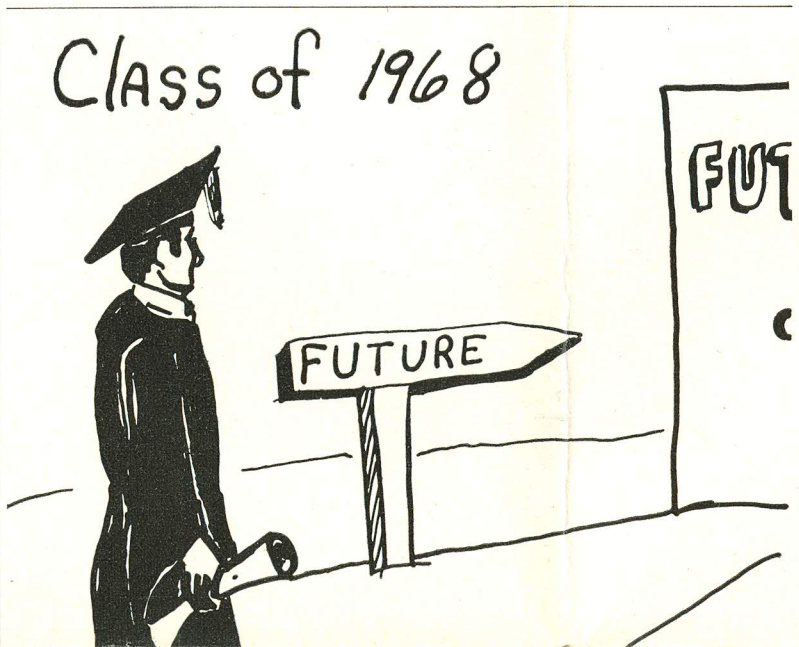

Seniors, now that graduation is here and you are ready to leave the halls of Dunbar, what advice would you leave to the undergraduates?

Carolyn Carter: "Whatever you do, do it to the best of your ability."

Robert Wynn: "Try to do the best you can and don't just pass the time away, for you may be sorry if you do."

Carolyn Jackson: "Do your best in everything because everyone wants to come out on top."

Albert Paige: "Don't look for anything out of education that you didn't take time to put in yourself."

... Of the nine members selected to All-VIA in football three were seniors: O'neil Ferguson, George Morton and Reuben Barksdale. . . . Diane Warwick won the English Department's Annual Oratorical contest during her junior year. . . . Many seniors were featured actors and actresses in the annual Christmas plays. . . . Malinda Coleman became head majorette during the year 1967-68.

. . . Myra Gordon was named a finalist in the National Achievement Scholarship Program administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

To all the members of the unique class of 1968, we thank them for their contributions to Dunbar and congratulate them on their personal achievements. We bid them a fond farewell.

Thank You, Sir

“. . . for 30 years of profound wisdom, excellent guidance, moral integrity, and outstanding leadership.”

This engraving is found on the plaque presented to Mr. C. W. Seay on behalf of the student body. It tries to thank him in a small way for all that he has done for us and for those that have gone before.

It is not often that we have the privilege of knowing one so unselfish, one so morally sound, and one so devoutly dedicated, much less having the good fortune of his services throughout the years.

When Mr. Seay came to Dunbar in 1928, never did anyone dream that this man would serve so far beyond the call of duty that he would be receiving laurels almost daily. He was then a chemistry and French teacher. After a brief leave, at which time he was the principal of Peabody High School, he returned to Dunbar in 1938 to assume the principalship of Dunbar.

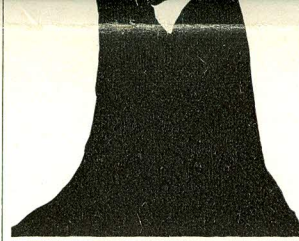

His first job with Dunbar was not the beginning of his teaching career. Before coming to Virginia, he taught French, biology and athletics in Paducah, Ky. and later taught science and athletics at the Kansas Vocational School in Topeka, Kansas.

During his years at Dunbar, Mr. Seay has continuously worked to upgrade the facilities, the curricula and activities at the school. New additions have been added to the school and many new courses have been instituted in the curricula.

In addition to his keen interest in the growth of the school, he has shown his interest in education in general. He has served in numerous educational capacities in the state and nation as well as in the city. Among them include the presidency of the Hill City Teachers' Assn., Sixth District Teachers' Assn. and the Virginia Teachers' Assn., and chairman of the Liaison Committee and president of the Southern Assn. of Secondary Schools and Colleges, of which Dunbar is a member. He was also a charter member of the committee which founded the V.T.A.

In the city, he has worked with many civic and religious groups. A former vice-chairman of the City Planning Commission, he is on the United Fund Executive Committee, and the United Negro College Fund Executive Board.

Views From The Sidelines

It's an ugly fact to face, but it is the truth: The American society has so degenerated that in order to break a man whose doctrines advocate nothing more than love and brotherhood, it has to kill him.

How ironic it is that one so full of the milk of human kindness, one so full of good regard for all men, one whose love transcended all earthly bounds, one so full of the peace and serenity of non-violence, should lie dead—his life snuffed out by an act of violence.

No longer will he walk arm in arm with his brothers in the front of a freedom march.

No longer will he suffer the indignation of cattle prods or the humiliation of being called "boy."

No longer will his golden baritone penetrate through church and hall, field and dale, in search of those who would follow him in Christian love.

No longer will he be able to plead the cases of even the lowest, like the garbage workers of Memphis.

No longer will he confer with Presidents and carry the plea of the estranged to the highest plateau in the American government.

No longer will he philosophize and teach to all who would hear his hope that all men would soon be free.

No longer will he travel to dark Gethsemane, or through the valley of death, or to the mountaintop.

The journey has ended and his cry of "Let it be me" has not gone unanswered. He is dead and the guilt lies not with James E. Ray, the man sought by the F.B.I. for his death, but with all of us who have made society such a sick mother that her children commit such contemptible acts with alarming frequency.

If violence continues, if bigotry flourishes, if hope vanishes, then Martin Luther King Jr. will have given his life in vain. It is for us the living to see to it that the death of this golden orator, this prophet of peace, this man of God, this apostle of justice, and this king of brotherhood will not go unheeded but will be a beacon to mankind to show us the way to righteousness.

For a man to have done so much for so many is truly laudable, for some men live and die without having ever done anything to help anyone. We want him to know that his years of dedication have not been given in vain. As we search for more eloquent words at another time, we hope it will suffice for now when we say, "Thank you, Sir."

Glenda Jefferson: "Be cool and stay in school."

Nathaniel Norfleet: "Don't be a dropout, but just stick with it."

Shirley Reynolds: "Do your best in the 10th and 11th grades because they're the years that count. Don't be at the bottom of your senior list."

Bernice Jenkins: "Don't play around. Try to do your best in all classes because when you become a senior, it will be a little late."

Ricardo C. Cheatwood: "Since you are here, I would suggest that you do your very best as a student and as an athlete if you participate. Do your best in the 10th and 11th grades and don't be

THE FORUM

To The Editor:

I would like to thank the seniors for their superb conduct on "Senior Day." For once the privilege of "Senior Day" was not marred by incidents that detract from the school and the class.

Perhaps, some would say that no thanks are in order because it was our duty to be good. But how many times in the past have seniors been guilty of neglecting their duties?

So again I say thanks for not spoiling our day with embarrassing misconduct.

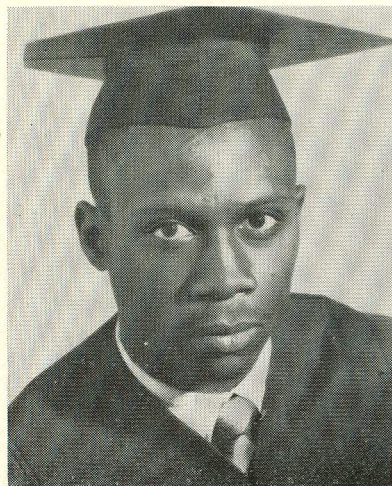

O'Neil Ferguson

To The Editor:

I think the junior class should know how much we, the seniors, enjoyed the prom. Your diligent efforts certainly paid off well, because your decorations were beautiful, the music was delightful, and the refreshments were delicious. You can be proud because you did a job well.

CLASS POEM

Our eyes look toward the sunset,
Where light rays paint the sky,
And stand uncertainly groping
For words to say goodbye.

Oh, Dunbar, we cannot thank you,
Although we feel we must.
We hope we can give the world
A part of what you've given us.

We cannot thank you for the days;
You were our only friend.
Nor can we ever forget
How you stuck by us to the end.

You removed our childish ways,
And you taught us how to bend.
Now we stand before you,
Your young women and your young men.

You shared in all our triumphs,
And you shared in all our sorrows.
You taught us to forget the past
And to prepare for our tomorrows.

We will take all these lessons,
And lock them in our heart,
And hope that they will guide us
Now that the time has come to part.

We will use them in our quest
To make the bells of justice ring.
To make the murders end
Of men like the Kennedys and King.

We will use them in our search
To find hearts not full of hate
To build America anew
And to make her truly great.

The task will not be easy;
This, we all do know.
But thanks to you, dear Dunbar,
We know which way to go.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

TO THE 1968 GRADUATING CLASS DUNBAR SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Let me extend to each of you the warm congratulations of a former teacher who, in spirit, shares your sense of achievement.

You have laid a foundation for useful and satisfying lives. Before you get on with the work, I would like to offer a few thoughts that you may find useful.

The passion to succeed, to achieve great things, is strongest in youth. Heed it. Do not squander your lives in petty pursuits. Commit yourselves now to a course that will strengthen you for the trials and opportunities of life.

Prize your individuality always. Whatever your place in society, whatever your work, do not surrender your self-reliance or compromise your independence. Liberty is and always will be your most precious possession. Guard it well.

Direct your energies, your talents, and your desires to what is best for yourselves and best for your country. We look to you to redeem what is wrong in our national past and to build what will be great in our national future.

Let this be your wish: that you may look back upon this graduation—from no matter how many years hence—with the conviction that you have treated all men with honesty and goodwill, that you have put your heart into your work, that you have done your best.

The seniors' other choice was Mr. Odell M. Washington.

The juniors did it again. For the second consecutive year, a panel of four top junior class members has defeated a senior class panel of four top students in the Student Council sponsored 'College Bowl.'

In the May 10 assembly program, the juniors at the final bell had a score of 380 to the seniors' 280 tally.

Gail Marshall, captain, Eric Hubbard, Victoria Anderson, and William Wooten made up the winning team.

On the senior team were Ricardo Cheatwood, Myra Gordon, Gerard Hutcherson, and Marshall Davis, captain.

Asking the questions, which ranged from classics to jazz and from academic subjects to sports, was Mr. L. G. Stamps, quiz master.

College in Doubles

As in previous years Dunbar graduates will be attending colleges and universities all over the United States. Five of these institutions will have at least two Dunbarians.

Gerard Hutcherson and Myra Gordon will journey to Ithaca, New York, in the fall to attend Cornell University.

Robert Wynn and Ronald Wilkinson have decided to accept their grants and scholarships and enroll in Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, Va.

September will find Janice Warwick and Paul Dillard on the campus of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va., while Howard Fowler and Elizabeth Horsley plan to attend Virginia State College in Petersburg, Va.

Valerie Britt and Glen Ray Clark plan to stick close to home and further their education at the Central Virginia Community College.

Another senior comments, "I think he's the most understanding man in the world and there is no other like him."

"It would take too long to explain," says Vassar Crews.

Prom Given

Dunbar's cafeteria on May 24 was transformed into a Tahitian Island of coconut trees surrounded by a blue ocean.

The juniors, who entertained the seniors and their guests, at their annual prom had "A Lover's Paradise" as the theme of the formal affair.

Music was provided by the Blue Notes.

Refreshments were served and each guest was given a Hawaiian ukulele as a souvenir.

Various committees of the junior class were responsible for refreshments, decorations, invitations and music.

"I learned more in his room in one year than I have ever learned in four years of math," says Ricardo Merriman.

Marjorie Sihlangu says, "He helped me get back in school after I dropped out for a second time."

School Run By Seniors

As the seniors filed into school May 3, the expression conveying "This is our day!" was written all over their faces.

Noses in the air and chests out, members of the senior class on Senior Day exhibited their skills for the benefit of and their authority over the under classmen.

Adhering to tradition, the seniors were in charge of the school. Ricardo Cheatwood, class president, acted as principal for the day, while many of his fellow classmates taught classes or acted in other official capacities.

Those who had not previously signed up for a class, however, had to attend their regular classes as usual.

Also, as in prior years, each senior who wished to participate in the Senior Day activities had to sign the "Senior Pledge," which included the school's standards and code of ethics.

In an afternoon assembly the class of '68 presented "The Tonight Show" with hosts Larry Rucker and Paul Dillard.

The show had everything from skits, dancers, and singers to jokes and commercials.

Best Wishes, Seniors.

Memorial Held For Dr. M. L. King

"We are here out of respect to a great moral and spiritual leader," Principal C. W. Seay said at an impromptu assembly held April 5 following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. the night before.

Cancelling the scheduled Student Council program, Mr. Seay had the school assemble "to pay our respects to a servant of God and man, to show our kinship with him, and to pledge our support for the causes for which he worked."

Following a scripture from St. Matthew by Mr. L. G. Stamps, Principal Seay prayed that Dr. King did not die in vain and that King's bereaved family might find comfort in God.

William Wooten, who studied at Taft School last summer, will be enrolled at Phillip's Exeter in New Hampshire this summer. He is an eleventh grader.

At Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va., seniors Paul Dillard and Gerard Hutcherson will be studying.

Employment Opportunities Discussed

Employment opportunities for high school graduates in Lynchburg were discussed at a recent meeting of the Dunbar P.T.A.

A panel of four businessmen from the Lynchburg area gave information regarding their specific businesses and how young people can find employment in these businesses.

Mr. E. R. Templeton, executive vice-president of Central Virginia Industries, was the moderator. The other three panelists were, Mr. Hugh Toler, director of personnel public relations for Leggett's Department Stores; Mr. Brown Holston, personnel director of Craddock-Terry Shoe Corp., and Mr. G. Hugh Meilinger, director of industrial relations for the Mead Corp.

Luncheon Given

All the girls in the senior class were invited to a luncheon at the Presidential Motor Inn on June 1 at 1 p.m. The luncheon was given by Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, of which Mrs. Helen J. Lewis is president.

"A person's character and personality, not necessarily experience, are the determining factors as to whether or not he will be offered a job," the panelists said.

"People must learn to sell themselves," Mr. Templeton advised.

The kind of person that all employers look for, the panelists commented, are "those who are neat and punctual. They must have confidence in themselves and be able to express themselves."

Teacher Visits

Mrs. Geraldine Robinson, French teacher at Carter B. Woodson High School in Dillwyn, spent a day visiting the Dunbar French department recently.

She was interested in observing classes and seeing the equipment and materials in the department. While here she also visited Dunbar Junior High so that she could see the portable language laboratory used there.

Carter B. Woodson uses the same series of books that are used at Dunbar.

The program is open to boys in the 10th through 12th grades and will include an in-depth study of aerospace science and the essentials of military drill.

The three-year ROTC program is entitled Aerospace Education. Strictly voluntary, the program will offer one-half credit for a year's work. The credit can be applied as an elective toward graduation.

Transportation will be provided for boys from Dunbar High School to Glass for instruction.

The course will cover these facets of modern aerospace: the military, commercial and social aspects, the traditions and the scientific processes that make them function.

Air Force reference library materials, maps and visual aids are provided the school system by the U. S. Air Force.

Aerospace Education I, added to the 1968-1969 curriculum, is designed for high school sophomores. The content will cover most of the major elements of aerospace although depth of coverage is limited.

The second course, Aerospace Education II, will be adapted into the curriculum in 1969-1970. Subjects touched in the first course will be explored in greater depths. Aspects of all segments of aviation—current and future—will be stressed.

In 1970-71, Aerospace Education III will be offered to seniors. It will cover the various elements of space hardware and programs.

Completion of the three-year course entitles the student to one stripe in the Air Force Reserve. Another application of the program would be if a student completes three years of the program and receives a certificate of completion, he may be given one year of credit for basic AFROTC if he enters the program at a college or university.

Should he enter the Air Force he may be enlisted as an airman third class. This is one grade higher than an enlistee with AFJROTC.

In addition to receiving support from the Air Force for educational materials, the school system will receive cadet uniforms and insignia. The uniform will be worn by students for drill only, which will be held two times each week for a total minimum requirement of 96 hours of instruction a year.

Three special awards were presented for outstanding service to the school.

Miss Ann Frye, a local newspaper reporter, received an award for meritorious service, and the Rev. Robinson received an award for humanitarian service. Principal Seay was given an award for educational service.

The senior chorus sang several selections.

A reception was held immediately after the program in the main corridor of the East building.

April 30 in the school auditorium. Choral selections included both sacred and secular numbers. A senior tenor, Bobby Brown, was featured in the "moonlight moods" section of the program. Against an outdoor scenic background, first soprano, Dale Leggs, joined Brown in singing "Somewhere."

The symphonic band's repertoire included "Walt Disney Overture" and "The Dream of Olwen," which featured Hermina Walthall, piano soloist.

At the beginning of the second part of the program, a tribute was

Five Capped By Red Cross

Five Dunbar Senior High School students were capped during the Red Cross Volunteer Capping Ceremony in the Holy Cross High School auditorium recently.

Fannie Austin, Sallie Harris, Elizabeth Horsley, Gloria Hicks and Judy Rucker received caps and pins.

To be eligible for capping, a Red Cross volunteer must serve a minimum of 10 hours.

The Dunbar volunteers obtained their hours by working with patients at the Lynchburg Training School and Hospital. Every other Saturday, the volunteers spend from two to two-and-a-half hours playing games and wheeling physical therapy patients.

Approximately 108 students from Lynchburg area junior and senior high schools were involved.

Last year Dunbar had eight senior high students to participate. They were Phyllis Jones, president of the Red Cross Club; Patricia Washington, vice president; Mary Coleman, secretary; Arnetta Jones, assistant secretary; and Lorraine Watkins, Janet Fore, Linda Rucker and Patricia Carter.

The school nurse, Miss Rachel O. Wheeler, sponsors the Dunbar club.

WITH HORACE THE OWLJET SET AU-GO-GO

As Horace bids another school year farewell, he also takes time to observe the latest happenings around Dunbar.

FASHIONS:

The young ladies are really in the groove with the latest fashions. Mini-dresses and sandals are really what's happening. Horace spotted Diane Warwick's cool green and white striped mini-dress with matching green sandals on Senior Day.

The colors this year are wild and bold with light colors as the favorite. Prints are making it big on the scene also.

Prom night saw an array of varied styles in gowns from the low back to the ruffled, romantic look, worn by Earline Payne and Delores Bolden, respectively. The boys were equally neat. Horace observed Vincent Anderson and Phil Elliot sporting tails.

Paul Dillard, Percy Morris, and Howard Fowler, among others, are wearing the latest fashions for men which include the turtleneck shirt and medallions.

HAIR STYLES:

Hair this year is either long and swinging like Susan Waters or it is cut into a sharp short, short hair style like Janice Woodson's. The boys are doing the same thing: Some have bushes like John Phelps while others go Yul Brynner style and have it all cut off as French Poole has done.

REPORTER

crying when the class standings come out, talking about what you could have done."

Brenda Jones: "My advice is to leave the pitfalls alone

DANCES:

The favorite dances include "The Tighten Up," which is danced to the record of that same title and the "Four Corners." The "Four Corners" involves mostly rotation of the legs while remaining in one spot. It's really "together."

RECORDS:

The top five records include:

1. When the Morning Comes—The Mighty Marvelows.
2. Does Your Mama Know About Me—Bobby Taylor and the Vancouvers.
3. The Shadow of Your Love—The Five Stairsteps.
4. Think—Aretha Franklin.
5. I'm Sorry—The Delfonics.

FADS:

The fads are the sporting of huge round or granny square sunglasses. Dunbar boys are joining the ranks of men around the nation by wearing the turtleneck shirts and jewelry.

So until next year Horace bids all the groovy girls and boys "good-bye."

The Poets SpeakIn Memory Of
Dr. Martin Luther King

BY GERALDINE GILES

There has been tragedy among men,
Because God has called upon him,
Dr. Martin Luther King.
A man of determination, a man full of love who served the Almighty above.
A man who was loved by all and who was there when we called.

He helped to join our race.
He scorned and ignored disgrace.
He believed man should live by peace and not by violence.
He believed man should live by love and not by hate.
Then why, you may ask, should this be his fate?

He toiled with all his might to gain the things he thought were right.

He fought a never ending battle of non-violence, enduring and struggling with every consequence.

Now he has gone to fight another battle already won,
For his job here was well done.
